Faces in Fabric — A Glimpse

Two images of fabric folds captured under low light conditions. Certain shapes may resemble faces depending on how one looks.

Some patterns hold briefly, others dissolve with time or attention.

No conclusions are offered. The images are presented as observed.

Some shapes appear. Some fade.
The moment of seeing does not always stay.